FARM CONSULTANCY
Group

Dairy Cow Nutrition

- One third of all the expenditure on a typical dairy farm is on feed. It is the single biggest cost and as such has a massive impact upon profitability. This is why it is crucial to take truly independent advice on this area.
- Our consultants will identify your targets, for example high yield from forage or high milk solids and arrive at the most cost effective way to get there. We can also advise on the forward buying of straights and compounds.
- Our consultants have experience in all UK dairy systems from high forage grazing systems to high output TMR units and can be relied upon to give un-biased advice on a diet system to fulfil your objectives.
- Our in house software allows us to produce rations for all systems along with diets for all types of dry stock. We also produce milk forecasts to enable you to monitor performance and keep your supplier informed of your delivery profile.
- During nutrition visits we spend time watching the cows, looking at condition score, rumen fill and general behaviour, as well as screening the ration and looking at the fibre content in the dung.
- Getting outside is crucial to see how the cows are behaving so that changes can be made to diets.
- We also have a good working relationship with local veterinary practices to enable your team of professionals to work together to achieve your end goals.

To arrange for a free visit to discuss your dairy herd nutrition and to see if we can assist you, contact Andrew Jones on 07717 442888.
